President's Message April, 2018

April brings our Fabulous Fashion Show Luncheon on Wednesday, April 11th! We rely on this event to raise funds for the scholarships we award graduating high school seniors in June. So please come with your checkbook and credit card ready to bid on some amazing baskets that are part of our Silent and Live Auction.

The Silent Auction will be open from 9:30AM to 10:30AM for bidding before we start the meeting. Fashions by Stein Mart will be presented starting at 11AM, including a surprise model and some Ivanka Trump items! And everyone attending today's Fashion Show will receive a special extra bonus coupon for purchases made at Stein Mart not offered to the general public! Our Live Auction will include an opportunity to bid on a World-wide timeshare exchange week and an historic World War Two Era Bible, or the Trump Delusion Collusion Wine and Spirits basket to name a few extraordinary items! Galina Connery and her hardworking committee have assembled baskets that will give you the opportunity to pamper yourself with massage, hair and nail care, dining out, fine wine and liquor, and opportunities to enjoy the theater, or play a round of golf. There will be raffle tickets and items to win as well, so everyone can certainly participate and come away with a treasure as we raise money for the Scholarship fund!

Now calling all SCARWF volunteers to help us keep crucial Republican seats in the Congress and State offices!

You won't want to miss the long awaited Grand-Opening Party for the GOP South County Campaign Headquarters at the Outlets at San Clemente later in April!

Happy Easter & Passover to you all!

Best regards, Mollie Lazarus, President, San Clemente Area Republican Women Federated

Invocation

Heavenly Father, our Creator, Provider and Giver of everything good, we know you hear all our prayers.

Lord, You bring perfect order in each season, when we trust in You.

We are grateful for the freedom to choose our leaders. We give thanks, Father, knowing it is your good pleasure and will to work in every level of government.

Our Founding Fathers knew it's impossible to rightly govern without God and the Bible. We pray for President Trump. May he seek Your guidance knowing first and foremost that he is a servant of the American people. May he follow Your will to direct our sovereign Nation in the path of peace and safety. Dear Lord surround us with your love and mercy as we are gathered together on this beautiful Spring day.

We pray in your Holy Name, Lord. Amen

BE AWARE and BEWARE!

Submitted by Chalone Warman

The California Legislature passed a bill in 2015 which requires all California public schools to teach comprehensive sexual health education and HIV prevention education at least once in middle school and once in high school. The "comprehensive sexual health" model normalizes sex as an expected adolescent behavior and assumes all parents and teachers can do is familiarize teens with all FDA-approved contraception devices to prevent pregnancy and sexually transmitted infections. There is no information about why we should be concerned that this "sexual freedom" message has created a health crisis in America: Sexually transmitted diseases are out of control. Gender identity is presented in a similar manner by suggesting it's normal to remain open to all gender options, check them out, experiment, and, since these are personal choices, no one should be judgmental. These attitudes reveal a radical social ideology that parents do not share. This is not about health. This is indoctrination.

Unfortunately, many school districts in California have adopted curricula that teaches these attitudes, but last month when it came time for Capistrano Unified School District to adopt Teen Talk, enough concerned parents and citizens objected, and the adoption of any sex-ed curriculum has been tabled until Fall 2018. Other school districts, such as San Diego and Irvine, have already adopted Teen Talk, and parents are just now discovering how radical and offensive this curriculum really is.

How the left has co-opted sex education could become an important political message for Republicans, especially since informed parents throughout California are enraged. The left has been indoctrinating our youth for over fifty years, and this is the time to say, STOP, NO MORE. As more people realize that leftist ideas are harmful to our children, they will see that we need Republican values to fight these grotesque messages.

The Week Trump was the only Sane Man in Washington

Washingtonexaminer.com/opinion
Keith Koffler | March 27, 2018

Much of putatively sane Washington believes that in January 2017, a crazy man landed in town from Manhattan or Neptune or some other strange place to take the reins of government, for some reason having been elected to do so two months earlier by voters who had taken leave of their senses.

Each day, President Trump rants on Twitter and raves on the South Lawn, all while insouciantly lobbing monkey wrenches into the proper workings of government by issuing executive orders, saying nasty things, and wantonly firing people with whom he lacks "rapport."

But never has the logic of voters been on better display than last week. Never has it been clearer that voters, in their wisdom, had decided that Washington was so implacably devoted to immolating the country upon the kindling wood of discarded common sense that only a man unafraid of defying "reasonable" groupthink could save the nation.

On Thursday, the supposedly sane Washington establishment that has dug the country into $21 trillion worth of debt even while gutting the nation's defenses sent Trump legislation adding another $1.3 trillion in spending. The bill was a political and policy disaster for the president, who got exactly zero funding for a wall with Mexico he wanted and was delivered a full plate of federal pork to digest. And yet, even after having to veto it, he understood the common sense dictated he had no choice but to sign it since it included desperately needed military spending that Democrats had held hostage to their domestic spending priorities.

"My highest duty is to keep America safe," said Trump Friday, displaying a soberness he got little credit for and which Washington has sorely lacked. "For the last eight years, deep defense cuts have undermined our national security . . . hollowed our readiness . . . and put America at really grave risk."

Ostensibly responsible people in every corner of Washington were in an uproar when Trump Thursday replaced the sensible H.R. McMaster as national security adviser with the insensible "warmonger" John Bolton, exclaiming with disbelief that this could mean war with North Korea.

Well, yes. President after president and Congress after Congress had calmly, reasonably, and also quite disastrously kicked this particular can down the road for two decades with the result that North Korea, where true madness prevails, is now on the cusp of being able to drop nuclear bombs on American cities. While some claimed Trump had taken in Bolton because he had finally made peace with his walrus mustache, it was obvious that Trump did so because he in fact had a far more clear-eyed view of the threat North Korea and our other enemies pose than the supposedly more rational establishment, which for years had been hiding its pusillanimity behind the mirage that it could negotiate with the Kims.

The feathers of the Washington establishment were similarly ruffled when Trump committed the economic apostasy of finally standing up to China's years of unfair trade practices and intellectual property theft by assessing $60 billion worth of tariffs on Chinese imports. "Free trade" had long been the zombie mantra of Washington's elite, even as China demonstrated repeatedly it wanted nothing to do with the concept. "Trade war" became the new fearful mantra, and the stock market dutifully tanked.

What Trump the dealmaker knew, and what Washington didn't understand, is that your opponents often require threats before they come to heel. "China and the U.S. have quietly started negotiating to improve U.S. access to Chinese markets, "The Wall Street Journal" reported Sunday, and then on Monday reported, "U.S. stocks surge as trade worries ease," and the market recorded its biggest one-day gain in nearly ten years. (The market was down on Tuesday due to declines unrelated to Trump's trade strategy).

Trump faced more hysteria when he announced an emphatically sane and probably overly tolerant policy permitting transgender persons to serve in the military unless they had been given a psychiatric diagnosis of gender dysphoria, reasoning – yes, reasoning – that his prior policy of banning all transgender troops went too far.

But perhaps the most harrumphing of all accompanied his decision last week to congratulate Russian President Vladimir Putin on his "election" as a president without even getting the permission of the "experts" in his administration before doing so. Little did anyone know that Trump was already planning to expel 60 Russian diplomats to punish Putin for assassinating an opponent in Britain.

A reasonable, rational, and balanced approach to a foreign leader we already know acts very badly but who has a vast military machine and nuclear weapons arsenal at his disposal. One might even say it was a very "sane" approach amid the insane cacophony of Washington.

Military Notes

We have only one month to go until the Baby Shower at Camp Pendleton for twenty five of the De Luz Family expectant mothers on Thursday, May 17th!!

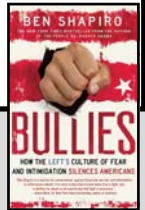

While everything is coming along nicely, we still need cash donations for filling in the 25 layettes! We need gently used small and large items for the raffle prizes, such as strollers, car seats, swings, etc. If not sure what is needed please call me or email to ask. Our next meeting will take place right after the fashion show on April 11th at Talega Golf Club. We will be taking a count of all items we have so far. If you are able to join us on the day of the Shower that would be great, please give me your name and information so that we can add you to the list of volunteers going that day.

Thank you for your help, Vickie Rennie, Military Outreach Chairman

Conservative Book Club 2018

Our Book Club met on March 21st at the Panera Bread Restaurant in San Clemente. Besides being a local restaurant at The Outlets that has agreed to our meetings, we've found their chai and lattes to be very yummy! We meet from 4 -6 p.m. on the Third Wednesday of each month and would love to have new members join us. This discussion was lively, and we've been fortunate to have chosen books that are so informative, and this time, quite inspiring.

BOOK REPORT

APRIL BOOK
"BULLIES"
by Ben Shapiro

Our March Book was Michael Medved's THE AMERICAN MIRACLE. He is an excellent historian and writer, and made our American story come alive with details that were astonishing in their timing and making of a new nation expanding from "Sea to Shining Sea". He explains how American exceptionalism has been confused with fantasies about American perfectionism. We know that America is not perfect, nor its citizens. The evidence that Medved cites strongly suggests that America is no accident and we are "A Favored Land". Our Founders believed "with unanimous and unwavering confidence in a larger scheme in which they played a part." Unlike other nations, America alone based her identity on ideas and values more than birthplace and bloodline. We promote Goodness and human advancement far beyond our borders. We are blessed, and in our music today speak of the "land that I love" while asking for God's continued interventions ('stand beside her/ And guide her'). All members highly recommend that you read this book.

We have chosen two final books for the year. In April, we will be discussing BULLIES by Ben Shapiro. It is a book that we believe will help us understand and learn skills for meaningful, and perhaps powerful conversations with Liberals. The book we've chosen for May is AMERICAN PRAVDA by James O'Keefe, founder of Project Veritas, a nonprofit organization dedicated to investigating corruption, dishonesty, waste and fraud in public and private institutions. As you heard from Jackie Cooper—this book comes highly recommended.
